GRIVA

The Genealogical Research Institute of Virginia (GRIVA) was organized in 1981 to promote accurate genealogical and historical research.

* GRIVA promotes fellowship and cooperation among genealogists and family historians through regularly scheduled events and publications.

* GRIVA members support the preservation and dissemination of historically significant records.

* GRIVA members actively participate in indexing and transcription projects to increase access to historical records.

* GRIVA encourages an interest in genealogical research among coming generations.

GRIVA's Mission

GRIVA promotes, fosters, and encourages serious and accurate genealogical and historical research through instructions, lectures, seminars, workshops, field trips, and publications.
